

COMPLETE LISTING OF INTERDEPARTMENTAL COURSES

Modern and Classical Languages

INTD 222-001: 1 credit course conducted in Spanish (Class #)
in combination with Anthropology 106 / Sections 001-008, 009-016: Introduction to Anthropology (taught in English by Prof. Nicholas Bellantoni, TuTh 12:30-1:20 / sec. 001-008 Prof. Catherine Fuentes, TuTh 9:30 / sec. 009-016)

Instructor: Staff (Spanish)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of ANTH 106)

Requirement: Three years of high school Spanish or 2 years of College Spanish or the equivalent or consent of instructor

The Spanish LTL course will parallel the topics covered in ANTH 106: Introduction to Anthropology. It will involve the study of a range of cultural materials in Spanish correlated with the main course. Guided readings and discussions of authentic Spanish texts will reinforce or complement what you have learned in the main course component. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, Spanish culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 002: 1 credit course conducted in English (Class #)
in combination with CAMS 101: Greek Civilization
(taught in English by Prof. Roger Travis, MWF 10-10:50)

Instructor: Prof. Roger Travis

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of CAMS 101)

Requirement: No prior knowledge of Latin / Greek is needed.

The LTL course will involve the study of a range of materials closely correlated thematically with CAMS 101: Greek Civilization. Guided readings and discussions will reinforce what you have learned in the main course component. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 003: 1 credit course conducted in French (Class #)
in combination with CLCS 101: Classics of World Literature (taught in English by Prof. Lucy McNeece, MWF 1-1:50)
Instructor: Staff (Spanish)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of CLCS 101)

Requirement: At least one year of college French instruction or the equivalent

The French LTL course will parallel the topics covered in CLCS 101: Classics of World Literature. It will involve the study of a range of cultural materials in French correlated with the main course. Guided readings and discussions of authentic French texts will reinforce or complement what you have learned in the main course component. While encouraging you to share your personal points of view on French culture, the LTL course will allow you to practice and improve your listening, writing, and, particularly, your reading and speaking skills in French. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 004: 1 credit course conducted in French (Class #)
in combination with French 169: Studies in the French-Speaking World

(taught in English by Prof. Edward Benson, TuTh 9:30-10:45 / Sec. 001

Prof. Lucy McNeece, MWF 11-11:50 / Sec. 002)

Instructor: Staff (French)

Time: TBA (will be determined in first class meeting of FREN 169)

Requirement: At least one year of college French instruction or the equivalent

The French LTL-section will involve the study of a range of cultural materials in French closely correlated thematically with FREN 169: Studies in the French-Speaking World. Guided readings and discussions of authentic French texts will reinforce what you have learned in the main course component. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, French culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 005: 1 credit course conducted in French (Class #)
in combination with French 171: French Cinema

(taught in English by Prof. Roger Célestin, W 6-9)

Instructor: Staff (French)

Time: TBA (will be determined in first class meeting of FREN 171)

Requirement: At least one year of college French instruction or the equivalent

The French LTL-section will involve the study of a range of cultural materials in French closely correlated thematically with FREN 171: French Cinema. Guided readings and discussions of authentic French texts will reinforce what you have learned in the main course component. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, French culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 006: 1 credit course conducted in German (Class #)

in combination with German 169: Contemporary German Society, Culture, and Everyday Life

(taught in English by Professor Anke Finger, TuTh 12:30-1:45)

Instructor: Staff (German)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of GERM 169)

Requirement: At least 1 year of college German instruction or the equivalent

The German LTL-section will involve the study of a range of materials in German closely correlated thematically with GERM 169: Contemporary German Society, Culture, and Everyday Life. Guided readings and discussions of authentic German texts will reinforce what you have learned in the three-hour class. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, German culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 007: 1 credit course conducted in German

(Class #)

in combination with German 171: The German Film

(taught in English by Prof. Friedemann Weidauer, Tu 5:30-9)

Instructor: Staff (German)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of GERM 171)

Requirement: 2-3 years of high school German or 2-3 semesters of college German

The optional German LTL discussion section will complement and illuminate topics covered in German 171: The German Film. It will allow you to practice your German while discussing films. We will read and discuss selected German materials such as film reviews, parts of screen plays, paragraphs on cinematography, notes on individual directors and actors/actresses, etc. Students will be given study guides and glossaries to facilitate reading specific course-related texts. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 008: 1 credit course conducted in French

(Class #)

in combination with History 101 / Sections 001-009, 010-019: Modern Western Traditions

(taught in English by Prof. Paul Goodwin, MW 12-12:50 / sec. 001-009

Prof. Charles Lansing, TuTh 3:30-4:20 / sec. 010-019)

Instructor: Staff (French)

Time: TBA (will be determined in first class meeting of HIST 101)

Requirement: At least one year of college French instruction or the equivalent

The French LTL-section will involve the study of a range of cultural materials in French closely correlated either thematically or historically with HIST 101: Modern Western Traditions. The selected materials are designed to illuminate special issues presented in History 101 (e.g., the French Revolution, World War II: Vichy, France's role in the European Union). Class work includes reading of brief original texts, discussion of art works, viewing of film excerpts and historical documents. Detailed study guides and glossaries will facilitate the comprehension of the foreign language materials. Emphasis will be on practicing the spoken language. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222- 009: 1 credit course conducted in German (Class #)
in combination with German HIST 126 : Living Through War in World History Since 1500 (taught in English by Professor Janet Watson; MW 11-11:30)

Instructor: Staff (German)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of HIST)

Requirement: At least 1 year of college German instruction or the equivalent

The German LTL-section will involve the study of a range of materials in German closely correlated thematically with 126 : Living Through War in World History Since 1500. Guided readings and discussions of authentic German texts will reinforce what you have learned in the three-hour class. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, German culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 010: 1 credit course conducted in German (Class #)
in combination with History 256: Germany since 1815
(taught in English by Prof. Charles Lansing, TuTh 9:30-10:45)

Instructor: Staff (German)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of HIST 256)

Requirement: 2 years of college German instruction or the equivalent

The German LTL course will illuminate the topics covered in History 256: Germany since 1815. Guided readings and discussions of authentic German texts will reinforce what you have learned in the three-hour class. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, German culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 011: 1 credit course conducted in Italian (Class #)
in combination with Italian 101: The Italian Renaissance (taught in English by Prof. Franco Masciandaro, MWF 10-10:50)

Instructor: Staff (Italian)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of ILCS 101)

Requirement: Two years of college Italian instruction or the equivalent.

The Italian LTL-section will involve the study of a range of materials in Italian closely correlated thematically with ILCS 101: The Italian Renaissance. Guided readings and discussions of authentic Italian texts will reinforce what you have learned in the main course component. The LTL course will allow you to practice and improve your listening, writing, and, particularly, your reading and speaking skills in Italian. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 012: 1 credit course conducted in Italian (Class #)
in combination with Italian 158: The Italian American Experience in Literature and Film
(taught in English, Tu 10-10:50, Th 6-8:30)

Instructor: Staff (Italian)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of ILCS 158)

Requirement: 2 years of college Italian instruction or with instructor's consent

The Italian LTL-section will involve the study of a range of materials in Italian closely correlated thematically with ILCS 158: The Italian American Experience in Literature and Film. Guided readings and discussions of authentic Italian texts will reinforce what you have learned in the main course. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, Italian culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 013: 1 credit course conducted in Italian (Class #)
in combination with Italian 160: Culture of Fascist Italy (taught in English by Professor Norma Bouchard, TBA)

Instructor: Staff (Italian)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of ILCS 160)

Requirement: Two years of college Italian instruction or with instructor's consent

The Italian LTL-section will involve the study of a range of materials in Italian closely correlated thematically with ILCS 160: Culture of Fascist Italy. Guided readings and discussions of authentic Italian texts will reinforce what you have learned in the main course component. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, Italian culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222-014: 1 credit course conducted in Italian (Class #)
in combination with Italian 258W: Cinematic Representations of Italian-Americans
(taught in English, Tu 10-10:50, Th 6-8:30)

Instructor: Staff (Italian)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of ILCS 258W)

Requirement: Two years of college Italian instruction or with instructor's consent

The Italian LTL-section will involve the study of a range of materials in Italian closely correlated thematically with ILCS 258W: Cinematic Representations of Italian-Americans. Guided readings and discussions of authentic Italian texts will reinforce what you have learned in the main course component. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, Italian culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 015: 1 credit course conducted in Spanish (Class #)
in combination with Latin American Studies 190W Section 001: Perspectives on Latin America

(taught in English, MW 11-11:50)

Instructor: Staff (Spanish)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of LAMS 190W)

Requirement: Three years of high school Spanish or 2 years of College Spanish or the equivalent or consent of instructor.

The Spanish LTL course will parallel the topics covered in LAMS 190W: Perspectives on Latin American Studies. It will involve the study of a range of cultural materials in Spanish correlated with the main course. Guided readings and discussions of authentic Spanish texts will reinforce or complement what you have learned in the main course component. While encouraging you to share your personal points of view on Latin American culture, the LTL course will allow you to practice and improve your listening, writing, and, particularly, your reading and speaking skills in Spanish. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 016: 1 credit course conducted in French (Class #)
in combination with Political Science 121 / Sections 001-002: Introduction to Comparative Politics

(taught in English by Prof. Rebecca Aubrey, TuTh 8-9:15 / sec. 001

Prof. Oksan Bayulgen, MWF 10-10:50 / sec. 002)

Instructor: Staff (French)

Time: TBA (will be determined in first class meeting of POLS 121)

Requirement: at least one year of college French instruction or the equivalent

The French LTL-section will involve the study of a range of cultural materials in French closely correlated thematically with POLS 121: Introduction to Comparative Politics. The selected materials are designed to illuminate special issues presented in POLS 121 (e.g. What does political socialization mean? What role does gender play in political participation? How do political structures in the industrialized world compare to those in the developing world?) On the basis of the expected rudimentary knowledge of French, we will use short original documents and visuals (incl. film clips, publications, short articles, maps, info from web sites) relating to the cultural and political issues under consideration in the main course component. Emphasis will be on developing basic reading and speaking skills required for understanding world events from different nations' points of view. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222-017: 1 credit course conducted in French (Class #)
in combination with Sociology 226: Modern Africa: Discover Africa with Films (taught in English by Prof. Josef Gugler, Tu 6-8:45 pm)

Instructor: Staff (French)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of SOCI 226)

Requirement: At least one year of college French instruction or the equivalent

The French LTL-section will involve the study of a range of cultural materials in French related thematically to SOCI 226: Modern Africa: Discover Africa with Films. Guided readings and discussions of French texts will reinforce what you have learned in the main course component. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, francophone African culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 018: 1 credit course conducted in Spanish (Class #)
in combination with Spanish 188: Christians, Muslims and Jews in Medieval Spain (taught in English by Prof. Benjamin Liu, MWF 11-11:50)

Instructor: Prof. Benjamin Liu (Spanish)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of SPAN 188)

Requirement: 2 years of college Spanish instruction or with instructor's consent

The Spanish LTL-section will involve the study of a range of materials in Spanish closely correlated thematically with SPAN 188: Christians, Muslims and Jews in Medieval Spain. Guided readings and discussions of authentic Spanish texts will reinforce what you have learned in the three-hour lecture course. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, Spanish culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.