

COMPLETE LISTING OF INTERDEPARTMENTAL COURSES

Modern and Classical Languages

INTD 222 001: 1 credit course conducted in Spanish (Class #3317)
in combination with Latin American Studies 190W Section 001: Perspectives on Latin America (taught in English, MW 9-9:50)

Instructor: Staff (Spanish)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of LAMS 190W)

Requirement: Three years of high school Spanish or 2 years of College Spanish or the equivalent or consent of instructor.

The Spanish LTL course will parallel the topics covered in LAMS 190W: Perspectives on Latin American Studies. It will involve the study of a range of cultural materials in Spanish correlated with the main course. Guided readings and discussions of authentic Spanish texts will reinforce or complement what you have learned in the main course. While encouraging you to share your personal points of view on Latin American culture, the LTL course will allow you to practice and improve your listening, writing, and, particularly, your reading and speaking skills in Spanish. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 002: 1 credit course conducted in French (Class #3318)
in combination with French 171: French Cinema (taught in English by Prof. Ed Benson, M 4-6:45)

Instructor: Staff (French)

Time: TBA (will be determined in first class meeting of FREN 171)

Requirement: At least one year of college French instruction or the equivalent

The French LTL-section will involve the study of a range of cultural materials in French closely correlated thematically with FREN 171: French Cinema. Guided readings and discussions of authentic French texts will reinforce what you have learned in the three-hour class. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, French culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 003: 1 credit course conducted in German (Class #3319)
in combination with German 171: The German Film (taught in English by Prof. Friedemann Weidauer, W 5:30-9:15)

Instructor: Staff (German)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of GERM 171)

Requirement: 2-3 years of high school German or 2-3 semesters of college German

The optional German LTL discussion section will complement and illuminate topics covered in German 171: The German Film. It will allow you to practice your German while discussing films. We will read and discuss selected German materials such as film reviews, parts of screen plays, paragraphs on cinematography, notes on individual directors and actors/actresses, etc. Students will be given study guides and glossaries to facilitate reading specific course-related texts. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 004: 1 credit course conducted in German (Class #3320)
in combination with German 251: German Culture and Civilization: Crisis and Continuity (taught in English by Prof. Anke Finger, TuTh 2-3:15)

Instructor: Staff (German)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of GERM 251)

Requirement: 2 years of college German instruction or the equivalent

The German LTL-section will involve the study of a range of materials in German closely correlated thematically with GERM 251: German Culture and Civilization. Guided readings and discussions of authentic German texts will reinforce what you have learned in the three-hour class. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, German culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 005: 1 credit course conducted in French (Class #3321)
in combination with French 169-002: Studies in the French-Speaking World (taught in English by Prof. Roger C. Iestlin, TuTh 12:30-1:45)

Instructor: Staff (French)

Time: TBA (will be determined in first class meeting of FREN 169)

Requirement: At least one year of college French instruction or the equivalent

The French LTL-section will involve the study of a range of cultural materials in French closely correlated thematically with FREN 169: Studies in the French-Speaking World. Guided readings and discussions of authentic French texts will reinforce what you have learned in the three-hour class. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, French culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 006: 1 credit course conducted in German (Class #3322)
in combination with German 169: Contemporary German Society, Culture, and Everyday Life

(taught in English by Professor Anke Finger, TuTh 11:-12:15)

Instructor: Staff (German)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of GERM 169)

Requirement: At least 1 year of college German instruction or the equivalent

The German LTL-section will involve the study of a range of materials in German closely correlated thematically with GERM 169: Contemporary German Society, Culture, and Everyday Life. Guided readings and discussions of authentic German texts will reinforce what you have learned in the three-hour class. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, German culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 007: 1 credit course conducted in French (Class #3323)
in combination with History 101 / Sections 001 and 002-010: Modern Western Traditions

(taught in English by Prof. Paul Goodwin, MW 12-12:50 / sec. 002-010

Prof. Catherine Thompson, TuTh 9:30-10:45 / sec. 001)

Instructor: Staff (French)

Time: TBA (will be determined in first class meeting of HIST 101)

Requirement: At least one year of college French instruction or the equivalent

The French LTL-section will involve the study of a range of cultural materials in French closely correlated either thematically or historically with HIST 101: Modern Western Traditions. The selected materials are designed to illuminate special issues presented in History 101 (e.g., the French Revolution, World War II: Vichy, France's role in the European Union). Class work includes reading of brief original texts, discussion of art works, viewing of film excerpts and historical documents. Detailed study guides and glossaries will facilitate the comprehension of the foreign language materials. Emphasis will be on practicing the spoken language. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 008: 1 credit course conducted in French (Class #3324)
in combination with Political Science 121 Sections 001-007: Introduction to Comparative Politics

(taught in English by Prof. Cyrus Zirakzadeh, MW 11-11:50)

Instructor: Staff (French)

Time: TBA (will be determined in first class meeting of POLS 121)

Requirement: at least one year of college French instruction or the equivalent

The French LTL-section will involve the study of a range of cultural materials in French closely correlated thematically with POLS 121: Introduction to Comparative Politics. The selected materials are designed to illuminate special issues presented in POLS 121 (e.g. What does political socialization mean? What role does gender play in political participation? How do political structures in the industrialized world compare to those in the developing world?) On the basis of the expected rudimentary knowledge of French, we will use short original documents and visuals (incl. film clips, publications, short articles, maps, info from web sites) relating to the cultural and political issues under consideration in the main course. Emphasis will be on developing basic reading and speaking skills required for understanding world events from different nations' points of view. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 009: 1 credit course conducted in English (Class #3325)
in combination with CAMS 103: Classical Mythology

(taught in English by Prof. Roger Travis, MWF 11-11:50)

Instructor: Staff

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of CAMS 103)

Requirement: No prior knowledge of Latin / Greek is needed.

The LTL course will involve the study of a range of materials closely correlated thematically with CAMS 103 Classical Mythology. Guided readings and discussions will reinforce what you have learned in the three-hour class. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222-010: 1 credit course conducted in Spanish (Class #12218)
in combination with Anthropology 106 Sections 001-002:
Introduction to Anthropology
(taught in English by Prof. James Boster, TuTh 9:30-10:45)

Instructor: Staff (Spanish)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of ANTH 106)

Requirement: Three years of high school Spanish or 2 years of College Spanish or the equivalent or consent of instructor

The Spanish LTL course will parallel the topics covered in ANTH 106: Introduction to Anthropology. It will involve the study of a range of cultural materials in Spanish correlated with the main course. Guided readings and discussions of authentic Spanish texts will reinforce or complement what you have learned in the main course. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, Spanish culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 011: 1 credit course conducted in Italian (Class #12219)
in combination with Italian 149: Cinema and Society in Contemporary Italy (taught in English by Prof. Norma Bouchard, Tu 10-10:50 am / Th 6-8:30 pm)

Instructor: Staff (Italian)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of ILCS 149)

Requirement: 2 years of college Italian instruction or with instructor's consent

The Italian LTL-section will involve the study of a range of materials in Italian closely correlated thematically with ILCS 149: Cinema and Society in Contemporary Italy. Guided readings and discussions of authentic Italian texts will reinforce what you have learned in the four-hour class. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, Italian culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222-012: 1 credit course conducted in Spanish (Class #12220)

in combination with Anthropology 229: Caribbean Cultures

(taught in English by Prof. Samuel Martinez, MWF 10-10:50)

Instructor: Staff (Spanish)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of ANTH 229)

Requirement: Three years of high school Spanish or 2 years of College Spanish or the equivalent or consent of instructor

The Spanish LTL course will parallel the topics covered in ANTH 229: Caribbean Cultures. It will involve the study of a range of cultural materials in Spanish correlated with the main course. Guided readings and discussions of authentic Spanish texts will reinforce or complement what you have learned in the three-hour class. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, Spanish and Caribbean culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 013: 1 credit course conducted in Italian

(Class #12221)

in combination with Italian 255W: Dante's Divine Comedy

(taught in English by Prof. Franco Masciandaro, TuTh 9:30-10:45)

Instructor: Staff (Italian)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of ITAL 255W)

Requirement: Two years of college Italian instruction or the equivalent.

The Italian LTL-section will involve the study of a range of materials in Italian closely correlated thematically with ITAL 255W: Dante's Divine Comedy. Guided readings and discussions of authentic Italian texts will reinforce what you have learned in the three-hour class. The LTL course will allow you to practice and improve your listening, writing, and, particularly, your reading and speaking skills in Italian. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 014: 1 credit course conducted in Spanish

(Class #12222)

in combination with Spanish 187: Cultural History of the Hispanic World:

Explorations in Diversity

(taught in English by Prof. Christopher Larkosh, MWF 12-12:50)

Instructor: Staff (Spanish)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of SPAN 187)

Requirement: 2 years of college Spanish instruction or with instructor's consent

The Spanish LTL-section will involve the study of a range of materials in Spanish closely correlated thematically with SPAN 187: Cultural History of the Hispanic World: *Explorations in Diversity. Guided readings and discussions of authentic Spanish texts will reinforce what you have learned in the three-hour lecture course. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, Spanish culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.

INTD 222 015: 1 credit course conducted in Italian (Class #12458)
in combination with ILCS 260W: Italian Cinema (taught in English by Fulvio Orsitto, M 11-11:50 am / W 6-9:30 pm)

Instructor: Staff (Italian)

Time: TBA (will be determined in the first class meeting of ILCS 260W)

Requirement: 2 years of college Italian instruction or the equivalent.

The Italian LTL-section will involve the study of a range of materials in Italian closely correlated thematically with ILCS 260W: Italian Cinema. Guided readings and discussions of authentic Italian texts will reinforce what you have learned in the main course. In this class, you can improve your listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills, while exchanging your impressions of, and opinions on, Italian culture, past and present. For further information, please contact the LTL office at 486-1532.